The Whitworth Theology Department is solidly rooted in the Trinitarian faith of the church throughout the ages. We are committed to the authority of Holy Scripture as God’s word and to the worldwide mission and ministry of Jesus Christ. Our goal is to provide students with an intellectually challenging, academically rigorous and spiritually enriching theological education that will equip them to serve in a wide variety of contexts. The theology major focuses on the classical disciplines of biblical studies, church history and Christian theology; as students move through the curriculum, we encourage them to discern Jesus Christ’s call on their lives and to respond in faithful obedience.

Students who major in theology will be able to:

• Engage Scripture with sensitivity to its historical, literary and theological contours, guided by a redemptive-historical hermeneutic that equips them to fulfill Whitworth’s mission of honoring God, following Christ and serving humanity.
• Identify, analyze, understand and explain the basic content of Christian doctrine.
• Think creatively and critically about the relationships between doctrines and the implications of those doctrines for life.
• Know, analyze and understand the basic events, major movements, key figures and prominent themes of Christian history from the first century to today.
• Evaluate how the history of Christianity can inform contemporary Christians and shape the church’s identity and ministry in the post-Christendom conditions of the modern world.

Students will also acquire skills of critical thinking, reading, research, writing and speaking:

• A spirit of open inquiry.
• An appreciation of excellent scholarship.
• An introduction to the use of primary and secondary source texts.
• The ability to think and communicate clearly and critically.
• The ability to understand and argue a point of view.
• The ability to develop and formulate independent conclusions.

Whitworth’s theology department is committed to the gospel of Jesus Christ. Our courses offer students opportunities to explore the meaning and significance of the Christian message. Together we reflect on some of the most important questions in life: Who is God? Why does the world exist? What is the point of life? What does the Bible teach and how do we read it well? What can we learn from Christians through the ages? How does the Christian faith address the most pressing social and political issues of our time? We believe that a good theological education has the power to transform your life, no matter what career path you ultimately choose. Whitworth theology majors have assumed leadership roles in ministry, education, non-profit work, business, law, medicine, and many other fields.

Theology Minor

Whitworth’s theology department is committed to the gospel of Jesus Christ. Our courses offer students opportunities to explore the meaning and significance of the Christian message. Together we reflect on some of the most important questions in life: Who is God? Why does the world exist? What is the point of life? What does the Bible teach and how do we read it well? What can we learn from Christians through the ages? How does the Christian faith address the most pressing social and political issues of our time? We believe that a good theological education has the power to transform your life, no matter what career path you ultimately choose. Thus, a theology minor pairs well with every major.

Requirements for Theology Minor (15)
Complete any lower- or upper-division Theology courses (15 credits minimum)

Worship Leader Minor
The worship leadership minor is an interdisciplinary minor designed to prepare students of any major to lead music in church. The program balances music studies (music theory/ear training and private lessons, Music of the Christian Church) and theology (Christian Theology and History and Theology of Worship) with a semester-long internship in a local church and Intro to Worship Leadership, in which students regularly prepare and receive feedback on music that they prepare to lead in worship.

Courses

TH 130 Introduction to the Bible
An overview of the entire Bible, with emphasis on literary, historical and theological themes and the diversity and unity within the Bible.

TH 135 A Biblical Introduction to God
This class presents a Christian view of the nature and character of God based on the Bible. Our goal: to bring students’ perspectives on God into conversation with the biblical view, as we learn to think, speak, and write theologically.

TH 140 Great Themes of the Bible
In this course, we will explore some of the major themes of Scripture and what they teach us about the meaning of life. In a complex and confusing world like ours, it’s hard to know who to trust and how to live well. The Bible presents a vision of God, the world, and human existence that sheds light on life’s most urgent and important questions. In this course, we will explore these issues together.

TH 165 The Bible for Doubters
An introduction to the overall content and themes of the Bible which is organized around difficult questions and welcomes students who are asking such questions. No Christian commitment is presumed.

TH 172 Foundations for Christian Leadership
Foundations for Christian Leadership is a 2 credit course each semester (fall and spring; students may choose to take it for only one semester, highly recommended for both semesters) specifically designed to help students build a strong foundation for Christian leadership and to consider a variety of service opportunities. The course will consider different aspects of Christian leadership, theology, spirituality, personal growth, and relational skills in order to clarify students’ gifts and calling. The course encourages students to consider servant leadership as a lifestyle and a vital part of their college experience. Fall semester.
TH 173 Foundations for Christian Leadership II
Foundations for Christian Leadership II is a 2 credit course which builds on TH 172 helping students develop a spiritual foundation for Christian leadership, and helps students consider a variety of service opportunities. The course will consider different aspects of Christian leadership, theology, spirituality, personal growth, and relational skills in order to help students in their existing ministry and/or helping to clarify students’ gifts and calling. The course encourages students to consider servant leadership as a lifestyle and a vital part of their college experience. Spring semester.

TH 174 Diverse Christian Leadership
This course is an introduction to diverse Christian leadership. It explores leadership from a biblical and theological perspective while cultivating and developing culturally sensitive leaders. The course will include significant interaction with one another and diverse community ministry leaders. Students will grow in their own leadership gifts and be exposed to opportunities for leadership beyond the course.

TH 175 The Acts of the Apostles
The book of Acts begins with Jesus commissioning His disciples to continue His ministry through the power of the Holy Spirit, from Jerusalem, where the church was born, to Rome, the capital of the Gentile world. Acts tells the story of how the church grew, in both numbers and diversity. This course will explore the growth of the church in its infancy and the lessons that can be learned from this story today. Fall semester.

TH 181 Gospel of Luke
This course introduces students to the Gospel of Luke by providing an overview of its basic content and an understanding of its central message. Considerations will be given to its origins, literary nature, historical context, geographical setting, major characters and central themes.

TH 183 Biblical Themes and Women
This course introduces students to biblical themes such as creation, covenant, exodus, promised land the Messiah, Lady Wisdom, in a women and gender friendly perspective. Attention will be given to the connections between these themes and students’ everyday life.

TH 184 Physicality and Spiritual Formation
The course seeks to offer students opportunities to explore the biblical, historical and experiential connection of prayer, posturing and movement. An overview of embodied prayers and movement meditations will be presented. Periodic Jan Term. Also listed as PE 184 and TH 184.

TH 205 Angels, Demons, Heaven and Hell
This course examines the life, teachings, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, with particular emphasis on how our assumptions about angels, demons, heaven, and hell may help or hinder our understanding, experience and communication of the Gospel. The course will examine these New Testament concepts in light of the historical and cultural context from which they emerged.

TH 210 The Ten Commandments as Moral Law
See under PH 210. Periodic Jan Term offering.

TH 211 Wrestling with God’s Wrath
An examination of the biblical theme of God’s wrath, especially as it relates to God’s love and the redemption of his people. Special attention will be given to this theme as it appears in both pop culture and the public square.

TH 212 Redemption of Creation
An introduction to the whole story of the Bible with a focus on the created order and God’s plans in redemption and new creation. Considers the significance of a biblical theology of creation and redemption for contemporary issues. Also listed as ENS 212. Fall semester.

TH 213 The Book of Revelation
An introduction to the book of Revelation, with a focus on its literary artistry, theological message and relationship to the rest of Scripture. Considers its genre, historical setting, different interpretive approaches and contemporary significance.
TH 214 Theology & Ecology
Develops a biblical theology of creation care rooted in Scripture's portrayal of creation and redemption in Christ. Attention is given to environmental issues and the ecology and natural history of the Northwest. Includes study, work, worship, outdoor exploration and disciplined reflection. Also listed as ENS 214. January, odd years, Tall Timber Ranch in the Cascades.

TH 220 Demonology in Ancient and Modern Christianity
Study of how Christians have thought about demons throughout history, including the present moment. The historical study will provide background and structure for students to reflect on their own understanding of evil in the world, of baptismal vows to "renounce Satan and his pomps" or "evil forces of wickedness" and to formulate their own faithful response to evil.

TH 221 Ethics
See PH 221.

TH 225 Suffering and Virtue
Study of how Christians have understood suffering, faithful responses to suffering, and virtue throughout history. The historical study will provide background and structure for students to reflect on their own understanding of suffering and to formulate their own faithful response to suffering as they contemplate "the good life."

TH 231 Introduction to the Old Testament
This course aims to invite students into the world of the Old Testament. By introducing students to its content and historical, literary, and theological context, the course seeks to offer resources for engaging with the ethical, theological, historical, and hermeneutical challenges the Old Testament poses. This course has no prerequisites and takes for granted no prior knowledge of the Bible. Fall Semester, Odd Years.

TH 234 Theology of Community and Spirituality
This course is uniquely designed for the Emmaus Scholars Program. It allows Emmaus Scholars to reflect theologically on the nature of Christian spirituality and community. What exactly are we doing when we pray? When we build community? When we fast and feast, meditate and sing, lament and rejoice? What does it mean to be a "spiritual" person in the first place? This course tackles these fundamental questions. It does so through traditional academic means (i.e., reading, writing, and lecture) and also through an array of experiential learning practices and hands-on activities. By bringing together head and heart within the context of intentional community, this course ultimately aims not only to teach students about spirituality but to give them tools that will help them foster deep and authentic spiritual lives. Enrollment is limited to students in the Emmaus Scholars Program.

TH 241 Introduction to the New Testament
The content and theology of the New Testament in light of its literary, historical and religious background, with a view to gaining a good working knowledge of the New Testament. Special focus on Jesus Christ, the gospel and the Christian life. Offered Fall and spring semesters.

TH 242 Life and Teachings of Jesus
The pivotal events and major teachings of Jesus as recorded in the Gospels, and their relevance to today.

TH 243 Jesus and the Kingdom of God
A study of the kingdom of God as promised in the Old Testament, fulfilled in the life and ministry of Jesus, and consummated upon his return. Spiritual, social, and ethical implications of Jesus' message.
TH 245 Philippians
The letter to the Philippians is one of the most encouraging epistles of the New Testament by one of the most prominent missionary-pastors of the early Church, the apostle Paul. Philippians is one of the shortest books of the New Testament, but is also one of Paul’s letters most relevant to contemporary Christianity nearly two thousand years later. The purpose of this course is two-fold. (1) It will provide a thorough exposure to and familiarity with this Pauline epistle. Through careful reading and reflection on Philippians, students will gain an understanding of the epistle’s historical circumstances, its structure and development, its major themes, its lasting impact on the church, and its challenge to Christian faith today. (2) It will introduce the student to basic methods of biblical interpretation, which they will practice in their study of Philippians.

TH 247 The Gospel of Matthew
This course offers a thorough exploration of the Gospel According to Matthew, the first book of the New Testament canon and one of the most influential literary works in the early Church. Among other topics, students will explore the Gospel’s portrayal of Jesus, literary structure, perspective on discipleship, historical backgrounds, relation to the Old Testament, and transformational power for today.

TH 250 Gospel of John
A detailed study of John’s Gospel, chapter by chapter, in a search to understand Jesus and life with him from John’s spiritual perspective.

TH 251 Biblical Hebrew I
An introduction to Biblical Hebrew, including vocabulary, grammar, and syntax, for the purpose of reading narrative texts from the Hebrew Bible. Fall semester, even years.

TH 252 Biblical Hebrew II
Continuation of TH 251. Spring semester, odd years.

TH 255 Reading the Bible Through the Centuries
This course examines the major shifts in Biblical interpretation throughout history. As an historical study, the emphasis will be on primary sources. We will begin with the way Scripture interprets itself and then move successively from the ancient or early church period to medieval authors, Reformation thinkers, through the Enlightenment, and into the modern era. Through this course students will begin to reflect on the different ways that they interpret the Bible for themselves as well as to give them a library of techniques to work with as they interpret the Bible in their future life and work.

TH 261 C.S. Lewis
The thought of C.S. Lewis, as found in his philosophical, theological and imaginative works, and the interconnections between those works. Critical evaluation of Lewis’s ideas and application of those ideas to contemporary issues. Also listed as PH 261. Periodic offering.

TH 275 Bible and Gender
The primary purpose of this course is to develop deeper thinking with regard to the various roles of women and men in Old and New Testament texts and what we can learn from them. Emphasis will be on informed analysis, with full awareness of the sociological gender-biases that have molded both the texts and their traditional interpretations. Offered through continuing studies.

TH 279 Theology and Film
In this course, we will watch excellent films, read fascinating essays, and have good conversations about some of the most important things in life. The topics we will explore include friendship, work, love, forgiveness, happiness, death, and God. Periodic Jan Term offering.

TH 285 God, Sex and Relationships
This course analyzes the interconnections between God, sex, and human relationships. It examines how our assumptions about God and the Bible foster or hinder our understanding, experience and interactions with God and with one another. It explores how categories of race, status and gender arise from the historical and cultural contexts of the Bible and how they can be overcome by oneness and communion in Christ.
TH 288 Genesis in the Letters of Paul
This course examines the Pauline Epistles through the lens of the Old Testament book of Genesis. Each Pauline letter will be examined systematically, addressing the biblical themes of Creation, Sin, Death, Exile, Covenant, Slavery, and Redemption found in Genesis.

TH 301 Spiritual Classics: Books That Can Shape Your Life
This seminar introduces students to classic spiritual writings from Jewish, Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Protestant traditions that have shaped the lives of Christians around the world. Through narratives (stories, autobiographies, plays and films) and personal reflections (sermons, essays, hymn texts and letters) students will examine how others have sought to love God, others, and themselves in their cultural context. Authors include Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Isak Dinesen (Karen Blixen), Abraham Heschel, Martin Luther King, Jr., Brother Lawrence, C.S. Lewis, George MacDonald, Kathleen Norris, Henry Nouwen, Flannery O’Connor, Dorothy Sayers, Mother Teresa, and Simone Weil.

TH 302W Environmental Ethics
An exploration of scientific, philosophical, and religious views concerning the non-human world and our responsibilities towards other creatures, fellow human beings, and future generations. Includes readings in classic environmental texts, a service learning component, and a focus on practical issues relevant to the northwestern United States.

TH 304W Race and the American Church
This readings- and discussion-based historical seminar is an invitation to listen to the voices and consider the perspectives of Christian leaders and scholars representing Native American, African American, Latin American and Asian American communities, and to explore the complex role of American Christianity in issues of race.

TH 306 History and Theology of Worship
History and theology of the practice of corporate worship and the role of music in worship from the Old Testament to the present. Particular emphasis will be placed on the evolving role of congregational song in worship.

TH 310 New Testament Greek I
The basic vocabulary and grammar required for reading the Greek New Testament. An intensive course. Fall semester, odd years.

TH 311 New Testament Greek II
Translation of the Epistles of John and selected passages from the Gospel of John in Greek. An intensive course. Prerequisite: TH 310. Spring semester, even years.

TH 313 History of Christianity I
The history, thought, and practices of the Christian church from its beginning to the dawn of the Reformation. Fall semester.

TH 314 History of Christianity II
The history, thought, and practice of Christianity from the beginning of the Reformation to the present, with special emphasis on the major reformation, renewal and revival movements that have shaped the modern church. Spring semester.

TH 315 History of Christianity
The history, thought, and practices of the Christian church. We will read over the shoulders of Christians in different times and places as they discuss questions such as, "Who is God?" "Who is Jesus?" "Who are we?" and "How should we live?" As an historical study, the emphasis will be on primary sources so that we can hear from the Christians of the time where God was moving and with what kinds of people the Spirit hangs out. The hope is that through this course students will begin to reflect on these questions for themselves as well as build a library of resources to help them think about life questions when they arise.
TH 318 Greek Reading and Exegesis I
This course develops proficiency in the grammar and vocabulary of Koine Greek through the reading of a variety of Greek texts, particularly in the New Testament, and it introduces students to the fundamentals of New Testament exegesis. Prerequisite: TH 311. Fall semester, even years.

TH 319W Greek Reading and Exegesis
Fall semester, event years.

TH 322 Faith, Fear, and Fragility
In his book The Soul of Shame, psychiatrist Curt Thompson says, "We deeply long for connection, to be seen and known for who we are without rejection. But we are terrified of the vulnerability that is required for that very contact." This course aims to explore, understand, and begin to transform the way we engage that basic human reality—the longing for and yet fear and pain of authentic relationship—in the context of Christian discipleship.

TH 323 Religion in American Public Life
The major themes, movements, problems, people and institutions in American Christian history, with emphasis on the public practice of the Christian faith. Fall semester, even years.

TH 327 Theology of Justice and Diversity
In recent years conversations about justice and diversity have become increasingly polarizing, especially among Christians. With the emergence of social-media-inspired activism and increasing levels of diversity and disparity, these conversations have become more heated than ever. This course provides students with the theological and biblical tools necessary to meaningfully engage these conversations. It pays special attention to issues of race, gender, and land, and it attempts to listen carefully to a diversity of voices and perspectives. This is a service-learning course, which means that students will engage the theme of justice holistically and experientially as they regularly interact with members of the Spokane community.

TH 331 Old Testament Theology
The content and theology of the Old Testament in light of its literary, historical and religious background, with a view to gaining a good working knowledge of the Old Testament. This course is designed for Theology majors. Non-majors are encouraged to take TH 231 Introduction to the Old Testament, though any student who has completed another theology course is welcome. Fall semester.

TH 334 Youth Ministry
An introduction to the theology of youth ministry; different approaches and models for reaching teens; understanding adolescents in their various cultures; the structures and institutions that affect youth; development and management of youth programs; basic principles and skills necessary for reaching youth both within and outside the church. Spring semester.

TH 337 Romans
Paul’s letter to the Romans is perhaps the most influential individual piece of literature in all of Christian history. Martin Luther found in it the verses that shaped the Protestant world; Evangelicals turn to it for their "steps to salvation"; and contemporary scholars still debate nearly every verse of the letter. In short, every Christian should study it deeply. It had a lot to say to Christians struggling in the 1st century and it has just as much to say to Christians struggling in the 21st century. Those taking this course for the biblical literature credit should have at a minimum a basic understanding of the biblical narrative and Christian thought. Spring semester.

TH 337W Romans
The Letter to the Romans is praised as the Apostle Paul’s magnum opus. Martin Luther referred to it as "purest gospel" and the "daily bread of the soul." Romans has profoundly shaped the Christian Church and its various branches since the day of its writing, and it remains perhaps the most debated book in all of Christian Scripture. This course will examine the historical, literary, and theological contexts of the letter, consider the various historical and contemporary approaches and readings assigned to the letter, and engage with the text as a message that still speaks to and directs God’s people today. Those taking this course for the biblical literature credit should have at a minimum a basic understanding of the biblical narrative and Christian thought. Spring semester.
TH 341 New Testament Theology
This course will examine the New Testament with attentiveness to its historical, literary, and theological contexts. It will emphasize the ways in which the New Testament authors utilize the Old Testament Scriptures and will introduce students to some of the major theological and interpretive issues in studying the New Testament. Students will reflect on the potential relevance of the Christian gospel for themselves and for various aspects of contemporary life. This course is designed for Theology majors and minors, but students who already have a working knowledge of the Bible are also welcome to take it. Spring semester.

TH 343 Hebrew Reading & Exegesis I (Narrative) 2-3
For students who have completed TH 251 and TH 252. Reading and exegesis of selected narratives of the Hebrew Bible (Old Testament). Fall semester, odd years.

TH 344 Hebrew Reading & Exegesis II (Poetry) 2-3
See TH 343. Spring semester, even years.

TH 346 Encountering God, People, and History in The Holy Land Prep Course 1
A prerequisite to the Encountering God, People, and History in the Holy Land Jan Term Study Program. This course introduces students to the historical, cultural, and religious dimensions of the Holy Land and prepares them to engage with these dimensions once on site.

TH 347 God, People, & History in the Holy Land The Holy Land 3
This course travels to the Holy Land: the homeland of Ancient Israel, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. We visit sites considered holy to each of the above religions, engage with the people of the land, and wrestle with the way in which Western theology and politics have influenced these ancient Eastern cultures and religions. Our focus is on the history of the land and its people from Ancient Mesopotamia (8000 BCE) until today, with specific emphasis on the timelines of the biblical narrative and the modern Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

TH 350 Gender Theologies 3
This course invites students into an appreciative and critical dialogue with a broad spectrum of contemporary feminist theologies as they reflect on the classical themes of Christian theology such as God, Christ, creation, human nature, sin and grace, church, spirituality, ministry and ethics. Spring semester.

TH 359 Classical and Early Christian Sites in Greece 3
A January study program in Greece, introducing students to Bronze Age, Classical, Roman, and Byzantine sites with a particular focus on early Christian sites associated with the Apostle Paul. Students also study Ancient and Byzantine art, Eastern Orthodoxy, the Ottoman Empire, the rise of modern Greece, and the landscape, natural history, culture and politics of the country. Jan Term, even years.

TH 359H Classical and Early Christian Sites in Greece 3
A January study program in Greece, introducing students to Bronze Age, Classical, Roman, and Byzantine sites with a particular focus on early Christian sites associated with the Apostle Paul. Students also study Ancient and Byzantine art, Eastern Orthodoxy, the Ottoman Empire, the rise of modern Greece, and the landscape, natural history, culture and politics of the country. Jan Term, even years.

TH 360 Backpacking With the Saints 3
Study of the spirituality of desert ascetics and the role wilderness has played in traditions of Christian spirituality. Students will focus on silence, simplicity, solitude, Scripture, prayer, and the relation of landscape to spiritual formation. The course combines traditional academic study with 3 weeks in the desert, 1 week of which will be a backpacking trip. Students will practice the disciplines we study and will explore the role wilderness has in their own spiritual formation.

TH 372W Three Outsiders: Kierkegaard, Barth, and Bonhoeffer
This seminar is a study of the life and thought of Soren Kierkegaard, Karl Barth, and Dietrich Bonhoeffer. Specifically, it will examine their penetrating attacks on religion and the church, as well as their brilliant and timely suggestions for what it means to follow Jesus Christ (and to be the church) in a context that is no longer predominantly Christian. Fall semester.

TH 373W Who Is Jesus Christ?
Jesus asked his disciples, "Who do you say that I am?" and the church has been pondering that question ever since. For the last two millennia Christians have struggled to understand and respond to this central mystery, and in this seminar we will join that ongoing conversation. We will orient ourselves around a single question, "Who is Jesus Christ?" and throughout the semester we will read and think about some of the very best answers that Christians have ever given to this fundamental question. Fall semester.

TH 380 Young Life Leadership
TH 380 YL Practicum is for Young Life leaders who are in the Student Staff Training Program. It is a discipleship/training program that allows motivated and ministry minded college leaders to understand the heart of true ministry. Through both formal training and direct ministry experience, students will learn and reflect upon how to effectively carry out excellent YL ministry with kids. Students can take course for a maximum of 2 credits per year. Instructor permission required.

TH 381 Campus Ministry
Designed to explore all aspects of campus-based ministry, including developing a philosophy of ministry, designing and implementing a strategy for leadership development, and the principles and skills necessary to cultivate a sustainable approach to leadership in ministry. Fall semester.

TH 384 The Bible and Outsiders
The United States as a melting pot is considered beautiful to some and reproachful to others, with confessing Christians casting their vote on both ends of the spectrum. Those who constitute the melting pot are considered by many in America as 'outsiders'-those who do not belong. Other 'outsiders' include the poor, refugees, women, the incarcerated, those disabled or mentally ill, those caught in forms of modern-day slavery, and religious and ethnic minorities, to name just a few. What is the relationship between such 'outsiders' and the gospel of Christ, and what should be the relationship between such 'outsiders' and followers of Christ? This course will trace throughout the biblical narrative the ways in which God used such 'outsiders' to bring redemption to the world. We will discover in God's journey toward humanity and in Jesus's calling of humanity what should be humanity's vocational response toward one another, not least toward those considered 'outsiders'. This is a service-learning course, in which students will interact face-to-face on a regular basis with some of the most vulnerable people in Spokane. Due to the service-learning component and the fall-semester offering, this course is not recommended for Freshman.

TH 386 Readings

TH 393 Christian Spirituality
The history, theology and practice of spirituality, and its implications for life today as we worship, work, build friendships and play. Fall and Spring semesters.

TH 396 Environmental Ethics
An exploration of scientific, philosophical, and religious views concerning the non-human world and our responsibilities towards other creatures, fellow human beings, and future generations. Includes readings in classic environmental texts, a service learning component, and a focus on practical issues relevant to the northwestern United States.

TH 433 Theology and Practice of Ministry I
An exploration of ministry that is biblically informed and culturally relevant. This course is the first of two required capstone courses for the Theology Department’s Ministry Formation major and minor. Spring semester.
